

#61 He Never Looked

Narrator: He never looked at her like this before. As he studied her face, he saw the wrinkles that had just begun to form above her eyes. The wrinkles their children caused. The wrinkles he caused. It didn't even occur to him that they were getting old. Before, everything had seemed timeless. It was like the world was going so fast, and they didn't care. But they didn't know. They didn't know he was sick, or how hard it would be on her. They didn't know he would constantly forget; forget to pick up the kids, or to take dinner out of the oven. Her name. She never thought it would be this hard. She never planned to be unfaithful. She never thought she could stop loving him. And she didn't think he'd remember what she'd done the next morning. He never thought he'd lose control. He didn't know he could get that angry. He'd never used a knife that way before. He didn't expect those to be her last words to him. He didn't plan to sit with her body that long, but he never looked at her like this before.

Narrator: They thought they had longer. They thought they had more time with their mom. They never wanted to visit their dad through bars. They didn't know they could be this angry. They've never looked at him like this before.

#62 Going Down

Pilot: This plane is going down and I can't stop it.

Co-Pilot: There has to be something we can do.

Pilot: There's not. I've tried everything. We have only one decision to make: should we tell the passengers?

Co-Pilot: (looks mortified) I don't know what to do.

Pilot: I'm going to call in the flight attendants. (presses the call button)

(both flight attendants enter the cockpit)

Pilot: (unable to say what he means) How is everything out there?

Flight Attendant #1: Good. (corrects herself) Well. Things are going well.

Co-Pilot: I am going to be sick. (he seems to be interrupting himself) We're going down ladies. We can't stop it. We can't stop anything.

(FA both look confused)

FA #2: What?

Pilot: There's a problem with the engine and we can't fix it. There's nowhere to land for miles; we're going down.

FA #1:(hyperventilating) Going down?! That's how you tell me I'm never going to see my kid again? That's how you say that I'll never get to kiss my husband. That despite the endless hours of work I committed to my schooling, I'll never graduate college. That my mom is going to die alone. That book club will be moved to someone else's house. That I'll never see my husband ordained as a bishop. Or see the peak of his career. That I won't be there when my son gets baptized, or loses his first tooth. This is how you tell me I'm going to die? That hundreds of innocent people are going to die?

Pilot: Don't make me out as a villain. I didn't do this to you. I'm not supposed to have to say this.

FA #1: (leaves cockpit and announces to passengers) We're going down.

#63 Loser

(kids are walking through the halls with signs taped on them, characters will be referred to by their signs, this is a silent play)

Popular waves to people, but laughs at them when they are turned around.

Loser sits on the ground with his head down.

Dancer, theatre, and singer walk through the hall together.

Friend comes in alone. Friend says hi to popular. Popular says hi peppily.

Friend walks away, popular watches her, but does not make fun.

Friend goes to performing group. Compliments them. Theatre group all smile and bow. They walk away happily.

Friend stops nerd and inquires about his book. He uses lots of hand gestures and is very excited to talk about it. He walks away with his head up.

Friend sees loser. Friend stands in front of him.

Everyone subtly watches friend.

Friend sits down next to loser. Friend grabs loser's arm.

Loser looks up startled. Friend smiles.

Friend stands and extends a hand to loser. Friend helps him up.

Friend rips off loser's sign, and puts it on herself.

Popular comes to talk to loser, and they leave together. Slowly the hall clears out, but no one stops to talk to friend.

Friend stand there alone.

Friend looks around.

Friend sits down.

Friend puts her head in her lap.

#64 Collision

Two cars collide. In the first car is a family. The dad is buckled in, but his head hits the side window, and he is passed out. The mother was not buckled and is thrown from the vehicle. She lays unconscious in the street. Two kids in the backseat were buckled, and were extremely jolted, but alive. The other car is upside down and a man and his girlfriend sit upside down, buckled in. It is noticed that even though they are passed out, they are holding hands. The two kids from the first car are able to wiggle out of their seat belts. The older one, rushes to his mom, trying to wake her. Then to his dad. He is upset and struggling between the two parents. The second, younger child, with curiosity, walks to the other car. She lays on her stomach to look in the window. She tries to wake the couple. Only succeeding with the man. He wakes up and jumps around a bit, frightening the girl but she stays. He asks what happened frantically, and then attempts to wake his girlfriend. She will not wake up. He begins to have trouble breathing and cries, as the little girl takes his hand.

#65 It's Raining

(scene opens on a busy city street)

Little Girl: (excitedly to her mother) It's Raining!

Man: (grumpily) It's pouring.

Homeless Man: (sleeping on the sidewalk, snoring)

(car comes speeding down the road)

(crowd begins to notice and tries to move out of the way, some people scream. Commotion)

(car crashes on the sidewalk, throwing a person into the homeless man)

Homeless Man: (jumps up, startled, then passes out)

EMT's: (arrive on scene and try to revive homeless man)

Homeless man: Wakes up the next morning.

#66 Alone

Father: I don't understand what you mean.

Doctor: You can't see your daughter anymore.

Father: Please. I just need to know she's okay. She's probably scared and just needs someone to be there. She needs me to be there.

Doctor: I know this is hard, but-

Father: You don't know anything! You don't know her! She's only three years old and she can't die yet. She can't die alone. (weeps)

Doctor: If you go in there, you'll die too. Her cystic fibrosis is too far advanced, and we can't stop it. But we can save you. You can live to see your son grow up and live a happy and healthy life. But, I can't stop you from altering her treatment. If you choose to give your life to be there for her, it's not within my power to stop you.

Father: (desperately) What do I do? She doesn't have anyone. The last thing she'll know is an unfamiliar room with strangers. No one should die that way. But no one should be left on their own in the world either. My son doesn't deserve that- What do I do?

Doctor: You stay here. You pray and you love that girl with everything you have, but you make the smart choice. You make your daughter proud by taking the harder path and fighting. Fight for your son. Fight for your family to survive in spite of your losses, without ever forgetting. I'll be with her. She'll know she's loved before she goes. She'll be comfortable, I promise.

(Doctor walks into little girl's room)

Little girl: (weak) Is my dad here yet?

Doctor: No, he was hungry and wanted to get food so you guys could eat together.

Little Girl: I'm not hungry. (breathing hard and heavy) I just want my dad.

It all repeats until 1 is left. Last one left is really sad and then the lights go out.

There will be a table on the left and middle. Reservation thingy on the right.

So it starts out with one couple on the left at the table. Then the other couple comes in and sits in the middle table. The waiter is set first on the table at the left and then signals that he will be with them in a moment. Then he comes over and takes their order. The couple points to the menu and shows what they want. He goes to the reservation thingy and pulls out a tube with a "danger! Poisonous" sign or a skull. He pops some of that on their food and walks back to give it to them. They curiously look up at him as he has a evil grin on his face as he gives them their food. They eat a bite as he watches them, and they die as they smash their faces into their food.

WOLF: I was going to ask you... ACHOOO

(brick house stays)

WOLF: I was going to ask you if you had some extra salt I could use.

1st PIG: Oh... yeah I have some right here, why didn't you just ask?

#72: You're It!

#73 Black sheep narration

As the black sheep went down the street then farmer Joe asked

"Baa baa black sheep, have you any wool?"

And the black sheep said

"No not yet. You have to wait."

So the black sheep continued on his way.

Then Madame De Fer asked

"Doust thou have any wool so that I may make a scarf."

And the black sheep said

"No, ask another sheep."

So the black sheep kept going.

#74 Sugar and Salt

Sugar: Hey salt can I talk to you about something.

Salt: No

Sugar: Oh well the rest of the ingredients and I were talking and I don't mean to be mean but they were wondering if you could have a better attitude.

Salt: Is there a problem with my attitude!? Because if there is we can talk about all of yours too!

Sugar: Well we were just wondering if you could be nicer?

Salt: Well I was wondering if you could be less sweet and happy and baking powder could be less stupid. I mean seriously the yeast doesn't really need the baking powder he rises on his own!

Sugar: You are really are salty old man. We don't even need you, our human only uses ¼ of a tablespoon so you can just leave! If anyone is stupid here it's you, you don't even make things taste good, I mean people always say too much salt, but they never say too much sugar!

Because people like sweetness not you.

Salt: Well now you're just as salty as me.

Sugar: I'm sorry, I feel like Splenda right now, I feel so fake!

Salt: No one is as fake as splenda.

#75 Jafar Monologue

Oh what did I do to deserve this? I mean yes I tried to become sultan, yes I attempted to kill Aladdin. But I did it all with good reason! The sultan has made awful decisions for this country, he has spent more money on his daughter than on the entire country! I mean seriously what person in their right mind spends a trillion coins for a fucking tiger. I mean come on people all I got was a dumb parrot! And Aladdin what does Jasmine and the Sultan see in him. He is a thief and street mongrel, he has done nothing for this country except for steal bread and apples for him and that stupid little monkey. He also pretended to be a prince, which by the way sultan is a legal offense. I know because I was there when you declared it. He still got the girl with the power of "true love" seriously I offered her power, money, and lots of other things, what girl wouldn't want that. I mean I guess I somewhat understand on the count of mind controlling and using my mind control staff. And becoming a Genie and then a giant snake and tried even harder to kill Aladdin but the world would be better anyway! Huh well I guess I should go, the sultan says that me and Iago have to entertain him.

#76 The Royal Joust

Knight of France: You will feel my lance in your chest.

Knight of Britain: As if you knave, prepare to meet steel!

Announcer: Wait wait! The final joust will be delayed until tomorrow due to the blood on the field. Oh oh yes, call the royal janitor.

(both knights go to different sides of the stage)

Knight of Britain: I can't beat him, I must train. (runs off stage)

Knight of France: That fool, he probably bribed the man to delay the joust.

Wench: Oh yes, would you like a drink of this delicious beverage. (creepy old lady voice)

Knight of France: (interested) What is this beverage?

Wench: Oh don't worry about it, it's delicious, now drink!

(we go to the jousting field)

Announcer: Knights at the ready, go!

(both knights slowly advance groaning)

(when they hit each other they both fall off)

Knight of Britain: Ugh I think I trained too hard.

Knight of France: Oh that crazy wench she gave me the delicious drink, now i'm sick!

Announcer: (walks out next to the knights) First one to get up wins the joust.

(both knights fight there way up and push each other down until the Knight of Britain is up)

#77 Restaurant Monologue

We open with a waitress giving a man his order.

Jason: Thanks honey

Waitress: Don't call me honey!

(Start of the monologue)

Oh gosh I messed up again! I wish that she would just love me, but instead she's off with James. Huh man if I was James I would treat her like she was a princess! Unlike James who hits her and treats her like she's nothing but his slave. If only she could see that I'm the nice guy, but girls nowadays like the guys who are "cool" and don't treat girls right. Ugh why is it that guys who are sweet, funny, and respectful to women are always single. She has no idea what she's gotten herself into, if she ever tries to break up with him he won't let her go. She's never been as unhappy as she is now, she was even happier when her parents got divorced. That's how sad she is. Well I guess I should go I can't stand to see this.

#79 Josh

(Monologue - Comedic) Olivia - A psycho girlfriend and schizophrenic teen

He didn't mean it. I know he didn't, Josh Jefferson is in love with me, he just doesn't know it yet.

All he said was stop following me, that has lots of meanings
And the whole "I don't want to date you, you kind of freak me out"

Obviously he just can't come to grips with what's in his heart.

I've done everything for Josh, I will do anything for josh.

Like that one time he said he liked that one burger place out of the city better than ours so I drove 5 hours to get him lunch...

or that one time he said the neighbor's dog barked all the time and it bugged him and the next day little rover... disappeared...

Josh doesn't know how much I love him,

I mean I used up all the ink in our color printer just for that little shrine in my closet,
I've liked all of his instagram pics, and his facebook posts, memorized all his snapchats, read all his texts, a girl like me is hard to come by Josh doesn't know how good he's got it. Like that one time I hacked the school system just so his little B could go to an A, guess who was able to play football the next day!

Thats right, Josh

And he looked really really good on the field, and he looks so so good in class, he looks so so good in his car, and he looks so so good when you can just make out his silhouette from his bedroom window...

You know the voices in my head agree - Josh you belong with me.

#80 Alzheimer's

Father: Oh yes, yes.

Lizzie: Me and Josh had a wonderful date last night dad, I think he is gonna purpose soon.

Father: I had a date too

Lizzie: And who was that dad?

Father: Well it's not really a date, she is my wife, but the crazy women still makes me take her out to all these fancy places.

Lizzie: Dad that wasn't last night, that was years ago.

Father: You know, I thought I loved the women but I don't think I ever really did, but by the time I realized we had had the baby and another one on the way, so I just went through the years hating her

Lizzie: Dad! Dad please that was years ago that's not now, you loved mom... you loved mom

Father: you know I thought about leaving, cheating on her even, anything to drive that women out of my life but I had to stay for Lizzie and William

Lizzie: Dad please stop, its me

Father: Do I... Do I know you?

Lizzie: yes dad, it's me, it's Lizzie, your daughter

#81 Ice Cream Drama

(monologue - dramatic)

My nieces looked away.

Children are taught to run away from danger, from pain, they are taught to run, hide, they are shielded from the truth,
so when the truth comes

It is unimaginable.

Adults on the other hand, are told, forced to face it.

We were not the only ones on the street

Many people gather outside their simple homes,

To see, to look, to witness... this

I don't know how I was able to bear the sight for so long

To listen to the sound

I was suddenly so hot, so sick,

hope was gone, you could feel it leave the street

And I felt it, so did everyone

I was watching my nieces for the weekend,
I needed one weekend, trouble free
Now I had to explain to them... this.
The ice cream truck was there on the street, playing its luring magical music
The ice cream truck was there, but there was no ice cream
And with no ice cream, there is no hope.

#82 Final Phone Call

(scene - dramatic)

John: yeah, I um grew up here but I live in Seattle now, just um my um dad and (voice cracks) mom lives here now.

Alan: Hey sorry man I didn't mean to...

John: No just, She, My mom, is in the hospital across the street and they are pulling the um plug today.... and and I don't know why I am telling you my life story, (half heartedly laughs and takes a swig)

(Alan Extends his arm and sets it on his back in comfort)

John: I should be in there right now, waiting with the others for her final breath... I'm just not strong enough, so I'm sitting here drinking while my mother dies. waiting for a stupid phone call to tell me that she is dead

Alan: (Whispers) There is still time to run over, if you want you can still...

John: You are right, I should be there, I can say my last goodb...

(Phone rings, both freeze, phone rings again, lights go out)

God, if you are listening I kinda need you right now

(opens one eye looking for a sigh of god)(closes them tight)

Physics. I'm not even really sure what the word means but I have a test on it right now.

Mrs. Smith is a terrible teacher and never really told me what to pay attention to, you know how teachers ramble on and only say the important stuff occasionally, not that I'm making excuses, Ugh but you know me don't you, I can't test well so please if you are up there send me a sign and give me an A, okay a B plus, a C at least!

I promise I'll be better, I'll study, and pay attention and read and learn if you can just give me this one favor, God I know we have been down this path before but this time I really mean it. I'll even read your book and listen to the preachers, (Takes out pencil) Amen.

Courage falls on top of the shooter and wrestles the gun from his hand and knocks the shooter out. (The End)

#86 First line play: Monologue

(Girl)

He didn't mean it. Or at least that's what I kept trying to tell myself. You'd think that when someone tells you they love you, you would believe them. I couldn't. Not after what he did. Before his mistake I would have believed him with my whole heart but now it just sounds like he's saying just to keep me. Keep me away from other boys who look at me as if I am the most precious thing on earth. To keep me under his lock and key. To me when he said "I love you" it was a spell. And I couldn't help but fall for it every time. And the way he kissed me for the first time made me fall even harder. But then I crashed when he made the mistake. I wish that it was all just a beautiful nightmare. But it wasn't. It was real. Or at least for me it was.

#87 Dramatic Monologue: Anorexic

I used to be imperfect. Well at least that's what people thought of me. And what I thought of myself. I would walk in the hallways at school and see all these skinny perfect girls with the perfect body and figure that boys look for. So I decided that I would strive to get that. I went on a diet for a month and exercised constantly whenever I could. Then I started to see the results. I lost 10 pounds! But why stop there? From then on I only started eating whenever the urge got really bad. And even then I only ate foods that were high in protein. In two weeks I had lost 5 more pounds! And I was getting so many compliments at school like "(Insert name) have you lost weight? You look so good!" Or "(insert name) you look so thin and amazing!". I was getting praised. And even the boys noticed it too. I got asked out on more dates and boys actually started to like me. So why even risk gaining back any of the weight? I stopped eating all together. My parents started to notice it too. But they weren't happy about it. They were angry for some reason. My dad made me eat a whole plate of steak and mashed potatoes! I cried with every single bite. I got so scared of gaining back the weight that after they fell asleep, I went back to the bathroom and you know. I didn't have a problem. Or at least I thought I didn't. My name is (insert name) and I am an anorexic. And I do have a problem.

#88 Store Scene

(Walmart, two fat people, a store clerk)

(one fat person runs from each side of the stage to the center where the last pack of beef jerky is)

Fatty: Excuse me but I got here first

Fat: Umm no you did not. You don't even look like you could run across the parking lot without having to inhale 2 boxes of oreos!

Fatty: Excuse me! I only had to eat one box of oreos thank you very much. And look at you!! It's not like you can judge.

Fat: Yeah so what. I was still here first! So give me the beef!! (Tries to yank it from fatty) Fatty: (Aggressively yanks back) NO! I NEED IT!! MY CHOLESTEROL IS GOING DOWN!! I MIGHT DIE!!!

Fat: Um you want it to go down. It might kill you someday.

Fatty: Well today isn't someday now is it? Now give it to me jerk! (Tries to pull the beef jerky from fat)

Fat: Uh no! I'm gonna bite your hand like I bite into cheesecake! With force and passion! (Starts to gnaws on fatty's arm)

Fatty: Ouch you little chicken nugget!! Imma bite you like i bite into a hamburger! With fierceness and charge! (Starts to bite fat's hand)

(Both just keep biting and pulling each other's hair and trying to get the beef jerky)

Store Clerk: (Runs on stage) Hey you two I have a weight set and two gym passes with your names on them if you don't knock it off!

(Fatty and Fat look at each other scared for their lives and drop the beef jerky while running and screaming)

Store Clerk: (Walks over and picks up beef jerky) Works every time (Eats beef jerky) (THE END)

B: (wipes tears.) Thanks mates. Alright who's next?

A: I'll go. Hello my name is anchor.

B&C: hello anchor.

A: I joined to prove to those stupid stuck up dolphins that sharks can be all that to! They aren't the only intelligent ones.

C: Yeah, stupid dolphins.

B: You're an inspiration to us all.

C: Well looks like I'm up. My name is Chum

B&C: Hello Chum

C: I joined to- do you smell that? (sniffs intensely. Fish swims by) food.

B&A: uh oh. Intervention! (holds down chum)

C: Come on let me get a taste of the little morsel. Crickey I'm so hungry! I haven't eaten a fish in twenty four hours. It can be my cheat day!

B: Fish are friends not food!

A: Remember your oath! Fish are friends!

C: Sigh. Sorry mates. Your right. (Let him go) Sea you later! (Chases after fish)

B: We'll have to fix that at the next meeting.

#90 Dramatic Narration: Miscarriage

(Narrator, husband, wife, doctor)

(Wife and husband are center stage excited)

Narrator: We never truly appreciate life until we realise how precious it is. Look at this couple. They have been trying for years to conceive a child and they have finally done it. They are going to bring life to this planet. They are going to have a baby.

(Husband and wife look at each other adoringly)

Narrator: It starts off just like every other pregnancy. Morning sickness, cravings, very emotional, feet swelling, certain odors irritate you, etc. His wife was happy through it all. She loved the fact that she was creating a new life. And her husband loved her even more for it. He didn't care that she got angry at him for the littlest things, or when she woke him up at 4 in the morning to help her with her morning sickness. This child made them even closer than before.

(couple acts out morning sickness and getting closer)

Narrator: But as time went on, the pregnancy got bad. So bad that one morning the wife woke up with severe pain in her stomach. She woke her husband and they drove to the hospital (Couple goes to hospital) She was rushed to the emergency room right away and her husband was left to worry. 3 hours later the doctor called the husband in to see his wife. She was on the bed sobbing. The doctor explained to them both that she had severe blood loss from the hemorrhaging that they could only save her. She sobbed even harder. Like I said before, we never truly appreciate life until we realise how precious it is.

#91 Ugly Duckling Narration

Once upon a time, there was a mom. Her name was Mrs. Quackadon. And her eggs were about to hatch. Boom Boom Boom! Three beautiful baby ducklings! Oh wait, there's one more egg. Ah the miracle of birth- Oh my Goodness! That is not an attractive baby. Are we sure that's a duck? That came out of you? Really? Okay...Well anyways, the three gorgeous baby ducklings and there not so gorgeous brother tried to go about life as smooth as they could. And they did! Except for that super ugly child. No one likes an ugly child. He brought shame to the Duckling family. So one day momma took her three good looking children and left her not so hot one to fend for himself. Not the best parenting move, but cut her some slack, this kid was hideous! Years passed without anyone hearing from the ugly duckling. But one day, some bird came to the pond and claimed to be the ugly duckling. Let's see how ugly he turned out- Daaaaaaang boy! Puberty was kind to you! Course I've never seen a duck like that. He looks more like a swan. Ohhhhhhhh. Ya that makes a lot more sense. Someone better break the news to him that he's adopted. Well, I guess you can never judge a book by it's cover.

#92 How it should've ended

(Rapunzel and Flynn Rider at the end of their musical number)

R&F(Singing): see you....

R: Wow that was a really romantic musical number.

F: It was. I loved how we just started singing at the same time.

R: Me too! Especially since you couldn't hear the first verse that I sang in my head.

F: I bet it was almost as good as mine. I was all like, she's here, it's crystal clear, and all that gooey stuff.

R: ahhhhh. That's so sweet! I can't believe that we only met like a day ago.

F: (Takes her hands) That's more than enough time in a disney movie. (Lean in to kiss when flynn looks behind her) Woah it's one of those guys with the red hair that I totally betrayed in order to keep your crown for myself.

R: (turns and looks) Hey that looks like the exact same latern my creepy mom had last night when she tried to take me home.

F: Maybe they are working together to get you and the crown.

R: you're right. Let's not go over there. Besides I'm Kinda mad at my mom right now.

F: Sounds good. Let's go back to shore and hide from the police again.

R: Sounds like fun!

F: Hey has anyone ever told you, that you look like the lost princess?

R: Yeah I saw that mosaic and thought it looked like me.

F: let's look into that.

R: Cool. Best birthday/first date ever!

One of his companions helped him up and they were heading over to the group. Harold said the first thing he would do to thank God for being alive was to raise the American Flag. And he did. Harold had suffered many tragedies in his life, but nothing compared to war. His heart swelled with appreciation for the friends he had made in the war, and how selfless they were. They were the ones who had stuck with him. They were the ones that cheered him up when he was feeling down. They were the ones who fell in battle, some never to awake. They were the ones who helped him raise the flag. They were the ones who he would never forget.

#102 Monologue: It happened so fast. I didn't know what happened until my mom explained it to me. I was playing outside with my dog Roxie. I had already had a bad enough day at school so I was telling Roxie all about it. I accidentally threw her dog bone over the fence so I ran to go get it. Roxie had already slipped under the fence so I ran through the gate to see who would get the toy bone first. When I got outside I couldn't see Roxie anywhere. She should have been right there waiting for me, with her bone. I figured she must have just been looking for it still. I ran to the side of the house and then I heard the barking. The bone was caught in one of the sewer drain caps and Roxie was trying to get it out. A car was coming while Roxie was tugging and they didn't see each other. It happened so fast. I didn't know what happened until my mom explained it to me. Roxie had died.

#109 Restaurant

I have been going to a small this small restaurant for almost a year now. The food is pretty good but that is not why I go. I go because of Chloe. She is amazing the first time I saw her, I had just ran in the restaurant Because it was raining cats and dogs. I happened to have the important papers from work on and if I got them wet, I would be a dead man. Then I walked in, and I saw her. She looked like an angel and her smile made me so nervous. I had seen beautiful girls before and that didn't affect me that much what was different about her was sunshine seemed to pour out of her. She let me wait out the storm even though it made her stay late. I fell in love with my sunshine girl but I was an idiot and didn't tell her then and there afraid of what she might think now I just come and sit every lunch yet after all this time whenever she gets near me I fall apart and just stare and nod she still is nice even when I act like some weirdo Why would she like me!? I am a weird shy idiot that comes to her work. Well until tomorrow, then I am going to tell her because I can wait any more. I love her too much

#110 Tarnished

#111 All Alone

I work at a children's hospital, a few months ago a little girl came in she had cancer I was assigned to help take care of her the first day when I walked in she announced to me that she was five years old and her name was Sophie after a while the days wore on that and I noticed that her parents weren't ever there one day I saw a social worker that was sitting at her bed side Sophie was sleeping so I pulled him off to the side and asked her why she was not surrounded by family He took in a deep breath and told me that she was an orphan and no one wanted to adopt a little girl that had cancer those words shattered me I should not believe that she was going through this all alone as soon as I got home that night I started the paperwork to adopt her it was hard to convince the court to let an unmarried nurse adopt a very sick little girl but in the end I won them over the same social worker from before he gave me a hug and told me that she was mine I was so excited that I drove straight over to be with my little girl she died that night the world is a cruel place but at least she didn't die all alone.

#113 Worth Dying

My buddy volunteer to hold the flag up during the fight this made him a target but I respected him for his bravery or at the least was astonished at his stupidity after a while I saw that he got hit yet still he tried with all his might to hold the flag up he would not fall down when I saw that he had given all that he had in him I ran to help him shortly after I got hit too the thing that kept racing through my mind was were goners were goner we are going to drop the flag and then die on the battlefield only to be remembered as the people that had dropped the flag right before the battle was lost but it didn't end that way even in this world where people are dying left and right and we are fighting for simple human rights the flag suddenly got lighter the weight was lifted off our shoulders and we were saved by the other that saw us struggling there. So we stood over the battlefield the stink of death still strong we stood there in the mists of our fallen brothers but we stood strong and made their death worth dying

#114 Tiny Land Octopus

Hello I am a little tiny land octopus or as you call it a spider I don't like that name spider it sounds so much like an evil scary thing and I am not evil or scary I am really not that bad we hardly ever bit anyone or anything I do drink blood but you eat bunnies and stuff and no one calls you a monster yet if you see me you think you saw a lion running straight for you with all the screaming you do and then you kill me like I was nothing sure I was in your room but it was really cold outside and I promise that I will kill all of the flies you there no point is there but here is the thing that makes me laugh every time you see me and scream at someone to kill me then you blink or glance away for a millisecond I hide just to freak you out yes it is kind of mean but it is also mean to kill people and you try to kill me all of the time

#115 FAIRY TALE SCENE: Sleeping Handsome(Beauty), Prince and the Frog.

Narration: Once upon a time, there was a very handsome prince. He was the most charming man in all the land. The prince was going to marry a beautiful princess, but his mother disapproved. So to prevent her from marrying him she turned her into a frog and sent her to a swamp. She then put a curse on the prince so that he would sleep forever and could only be awoken from true love's kiss. Now we come into our story where there are true loves kiss auditions.

(In the Prince's chambers)

Snow White: I am the very best because I can sing.(kiss him)

Aurora: Really I went through this before ok I know what's up.(Kiss him)

Snow White:Aurora you're not the best, I can sleep too(kiss him)

Cinderella: Well I can dance and sleeping is just lazy(Kiss him)

Belle: Well so can I, and I'm sure that none of you can read.(kiss him)

(Many different princess's kiss the prince and try to get him to wake up)

Narrator: Well sorry ladies looks like none of you were the one.. Bye bye (says it kind sassy)

Frog princess: None of you even care about him, step back! (Over dramatically kisses the prince)

Prince: (wakes up violently gasping for air) Finally I'm awake! (turns into a frog) Well this sucks.

Frog Princess: Well at least we're together (grabs arm and stares creepily into his eyes.)
Forever.

Prince: Yeah sure. (tries to get away from frog princess but princess grabs him)

(prince breaks free and runs off stage)

Frog Princess: (creepily chases prince) Don't worry princey I'm gonna catch you.

Narrator: Ugh glad I'm not him. (formally) Then they lived happily ever after... sorta.

I really like this Scene, I think it is very funny. It has lots of action. I like how the story is twisted from the original.

#116 One Line Scene. Goodbye

Lady:(starts to softly cry)

NS: (Turns around and hugs her.) Promise?

Lady: Promise.

I personally Think this is my favorite play that I wrote. It is sweet and gentle.

#117 Dramatic Monologue. Lonely

Hello my name is Rose Bannet. I'm 17 years old and I like to draw. I'm not exactly sure why my mom made me come here. She thinks there is something wrong with me. Well there's not, alright. I'm just quiet. I'm a normal teenage girl, honestly. I do normal things like all the other kids my age. I'm not much different then you guys. My mom said before she dropped me off was " Be happy, don't be scared to tell the therapy group how you really feel." What the hell is that supposed to mean? Mom, i'm not depressed, i'm not suicidal, i'm not anorexic, i'm just different! Get that into your little judgemental head. I'm not going to be the perfect daughter you hoped for, i'm going to disappoint you. I don't need her screaming at me, the demons already do that. I have no confidence to begin with, then she just puts me down. None of my friends notice me either. I guess that's why I did It, to have a secret, to have something to make me feel special...Well I can't keep faking this smile.(kind of look off and say that slowly fading away.)...I hate myself. I guess that's why i'm here. Because I simply don't belong.

#118 First line Scene Cigarettes

He's from out of town, just passing through. At least that's what everyone else said. They said he just visiting his family. He would wander the streets in the middle of the nights. Waiting for someone to get hooked on him. I did. Then he dragged me into to it. He told me he was lonely and just wanted a friend. So that's what I gave him. We were just friends at first, in and out of my life, but then things got more serious. He was always there, always nagging at me trying to get me alone with him. He was my addiction. I couldn't live without him. Always on my mind thinking of the moment together, when his lips met mine.I didn't think it was bad, all the other kids my age smoked, why couldn't I?
